work at Oak Ridge on the 18th, after restoring power to parts of Trout Lake, BZ Corners and Gilmer on the 17th. By 10:30 p.m. on the 18th, power was restored to the Glenwood Substation.

By the 20th, most of the county's power was restored, with only a few isolated customers still waiting for further repairs.

One of KPUD's linemen, Martin Taylor, was injured on the 19th, while restoring power to the Laurel area. He fell 20 feet down a pole, breaking a vertebra in his back. Martin is home now and his prognosis is good.

Special thanks goes out to the businesses who went out of their way to accommodate our crews, providing hot meals and sack lunches each day.

Letters and calls continue to pour in, thanking our crews for their dedication and hard work.

We thank our customers for their patience and support during the trying times that Old Man Winter throws at us. ■

Above and top, KPUD crews were finally able, with help from Northern Wasco PUD, to restore all power by December 20. One KPUD lineman was injured when he fell down a pole.
