

KPUD Partners With Allegiant for New Meter Installation

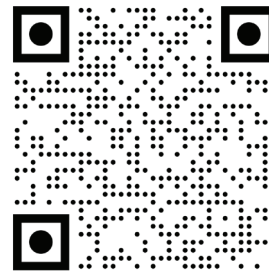

Klickitat PUD will deploy advanced meters system wide beginning this fall. This upgrade will provide more detailed interval data for customers and the utility. KPUD has contracted Allegiant Utility Services to deploy the AMI meters.

During the meter exchange, power will be out for a few minutes while the new meter is safely installed. KPUD customers do not need to be present for the meter exchange. However, Allegiant technicians will knock to notify anyone home before starting the exchange. Allegiant installers will be wearing uniforms with proper identification and will neither need nor request to enter your home.

The PUD will send notification letters or postcards ahead of deployment in your area.

AMI meters have many customer benefits, including helping KPUD identify and respond to outages faster and improving customer service by providing access to more timely power use information. Once the new meter is installed, customers will be able to access real-time usage data via KPUD's SmartHub app or online.

We appreciate your cooperation as we implement the AMI system to provide safe, reliable power service. For more information, visit www.klickitatpud.com, or scan the QR code. ■

KPUD's new meters are one major step toward replacing aging technology.
